

Temple Menorah to Offer Educational Lecture Series

"Adventures in Jewish Learning," an educational program, will continue on Monday, 8:15 p.m., at Temple Menorah, 1101 Camino Real, Redondo Beach. Classes will meet each Monday night in November.

Each course offers one hour of class followed by a second hour when all classes meet together to hear a guest lecturer. Following the lecture, there will be an informal social hour and refreshments will be served.

Rabbi Henri E. Front announces that these courses are open to the general public as well as to members of the congregation. Persons who wish to enroll may register at the Temple office or make further inquiries by calling FR 8-8444.

This program, entering its sixth consecutive year, is sponsored jointly by Temple Menorah, Temple Beth Ohr of Inglewood, and Temple Israel of Westchester.

THE FOLLOWING courses are available:

Class One: "Reform Judaism, Its History, Philosophy, and Practices." Rabbi Arthur Abrams, Temple Beth Ohr, instructor.

Class Two: "The Wisdom Literature: The Latter Books of Our Bible." Rabbi Henri E. Front, Temple Menorah, instructor.

Class Three: "The Organization Jew: The American Jewish Community. Does it exist? Do we have a Los Angeles Community? What are our organizations, our problems?" Alvin Mellman, associate director, community relations council, instructor.

Class Four: "The Heart of Our People: Selections from Jewish Literature Since the Bible." Rabbi Mordecai Soloff, Temple Israel, instructor.

Class Five: "Beginning Hebrew: Take Your First Step." Mrs. Mordecai Soloff, instructor.

GUEST lecturers will appear as follows:

Nov. 13: The Rev. Dr. Julian Keiser, "Making Religion Relevant to Today's Issues." Dr.

Island Menu Popular at Polynesian

While the entire menu at the Polynesian Restaurant in Torrance has been met with enthusiastic approval, particularly by guests who can discern between genuine South Pacific food and the spurious, several island specialties continue to remain as top favorites.

One of them is Javanese Sate, while fanciers of other exotic dishes dote upon Teriyaki Steak. The former delicacy consists of large cubes of meat, speared on a bamboo skewer, interlaced with lean bacon, and succulently barbecued with a tantalizing Indonesian sauce. Specialty is served with rice, fried banana and pea pods.

Appetizers and Cantonese fare are also served beguilingly at the Polynesian.

Executive chef is Henry Yee, while rum and other tropical drinks are prepared under the supervision of head-bartender Joe Jorquia.

TARTAR TEEN TALK

by Frances Adams

Keiser is minister of social action and inner-city work of the Congregational Conference of Southern California.

Nov. 20: Double hour of classes. No guest lecturer.

Nov. 27: "Ask the Rabbi Night," a question-and-answer session, the rabbi acting as a "panel of experts."

Attended by her lovely princesses, radiant Sharon Radi reigned over the 1961-62 Homecoming.

Members of her court were seniors Roxanne Barnard, Donna Thistle, Denise Higham, and Leda Davis. The five girls by the student body, and were announced at a pep rally.

Culver City High School was the Tartars' opponent at this year's homecoming game.

A special reserved section facing the 50-yard line was marked off for the queen and her court, and their families and escorts.

TARTAR KNIGHTS drove the convertibles carrying the queen and the princesses. After the parade around the football field, Sharon Radi was crowned and presented with scepter and a bouquet of roses by Barbara Campbell, last year's queen.

The annual homecoming dance was held after the game at the Armory on Cabrillo Ave.

Jerry McLean, Tartar football captain, presented the queen with a football autographed by the Tartar squad. The queen and her escort led off the first dance followed by the princesses and their dates. The first dance is traditionally reserved for them alone.

A local jazz band provided the music for the evening.

The queen, her court, and the rest of the top 15 and their mothers were honored at a tea held Nov. 2.

THE Scholastic Aptitude Test will be offered to interested seniors Dec. 2 and Jan. 13. This exam is required by most colleges before entrance. In addition, these scores aid in scholarship determination.
